

Latin Level I

Course Description

In Latin I, students develop the ability to comprehend simple written Latin texts based on a variety of topics. Because this focus on comprehending Latin differs from the primary goal of the modern languages, the first strand of the Latin Standards of Learning focuses on interpretation of texts rather than on person-to-person communication. To support the development of the reading skill, students learn to use Latin orally, to understand oral Latin, and to write very simple phrases and sentences. Students also learn about the perspectives, practices, and products of the ancient Romans as reflected in aspects of their daily lives. Students compare these cultural and historical elements to their own culture and recognize examples of the influence of Greco-Roman civilization in their own world. Through their understanding of the structures of the Latin language and vocabulary, students enhance their understanding of these same linguistic elements in English.
